WILL BUILD SIX CEMENT SILOS.

Six cement silos will be built in the territory around Larned this summer, two of which are finished. A. L. Stockwell, J. H. Boisseau, John Lewis and H. L. Brooks went in together and had a farm made to be used in building the silos.

The first one built was for Mr. Brooks, and the next one is being finished today on the Stockwell farm. The forms will then go to Mr. Lewis and Mr. Boisseau. They have rented the form to J. B. Gilkison, south of the river, and to W. J. Crumpton of Frizzell for use later.

The silos being made are 16 feet in diameter, and whatever height desired. The one at Mr. Stockwell's farm is 51 feet high, with a capacity of 356 tons. The Stockwell silo has both floor and roof, the roof being of cement.

The silos are built in rings or courses 32 inches high. Each course or ring is allowed to dry, and then the form is raised and another course of cement put on. It has taken about twenty days to complete the silo at Mr. Stockwell's. They have employed four men in the forenoon and one in the afternoon.

Mr. Stockwell estimates that a 250 ton silo built of cement will cost them about $500, which is fully $100 less than could be gotten from the usual contractor, besides the satisfaction of knowing what material is going into the walls. He says that his new silo is as much satisfaction to him as any building he has on the farm. Larned Chronicle.

MARKET REPORT.

Kansas City Stock Yards, July 7.—Cattle receipts at all points today were very light and the market here was 10 to 25 cents above last Thursday. A rather unsatisfactory market last week, together with plentiful rains all over the pasture and corn country, reduced incentives to ship to a minimum. Buyers overreached themselves last week in bearing down on prices, figuring on a normal supply today. They were able to act as they did last week account of the week-end holiday, but today found them in the saddle early and with rush orders. Native steers sold at $8.75 in two cases, a large number of fed steers at $8.40 and upwards, yearling heifers at $8.55, bulk of native cows $5.50 to $6.50, veal calves up to $9.00. In the Southern division only 77 cars arrived, as compared with 339 cars a week ago, and grass steers sold at $5.65 to $6.70, some caked steers up to $7.50. Some 963 pound steers from Klowa, Oklahoma, at $6.60, were from same herd that produced steers at $6.25 a week ago. Stockers and feeders were 15 to 25 higher today, with bulk of the stock steers selling at $6.00 to $7.60, feeders worth $7.10 to $8.00. The run of 7000 cattle here today was only a few more than half of what was expected. The close of the market today was its strongest time and unless there is a good run later this week further advances will be in order.

Hog receipts were also light, at 4000 here, and the market is 15 higher, top $8.92 1-2, bulk $8.55 to $8.90. Packers restrained themselves today, account of the small supply, but a fair run tomorrow will sell sharply higher again. Speculators were the principal buyers today and the general expectancy points to higher prices later in the week.

Sheep and lambs received today 4000 head, market 10 to 15 higher. Spring lambs sold up to $7.25 today, Texas muttons $4.75 to $4.85, native wethers up to $5.00, ewes $4.50 for best. Black face breeding ewes, good mouths, may be had at $3.25 to $3.75.

I often wonder how things will be around here a hundred years from now. I suppose the same number of chumps will be on hand to go to the barber shop to get their hair cut on Saturday night. Dogs will lie around asleep asleep in day and then begin to howl about the time you get into bed. Trains will be just as late when you want to go away and the letter you look for will never come. The man who knows it all will be on hand to tell you when you are wrong and the lady with the crying baby will have a seat just in front of you at the auditorium. When you want to go out walking some pleasant evening with a young lady you will find some other fellow has beaten you to it, and when you want to take her in and get a dish of ice cream she will be tagged by three or four girl friends who refuse to break away. Things will be so much the same that I don't believe I care to come back. It might be a pleasant pastime to look over the battlements and watch the fellows who succeed you here on earth wading through their troubles but that is about all. When I look back over all the trials and tribulations there are on a journey through this vale of tears I come to the conclusion that once is enough for me.—Deacon Walker.

DIRT CHEAP.

The following is one of the best descriptions of the home newspaper we have read in some time: Your home newspaper heralded to the world your birth. Mentioned your birthday party when you were 16. Applauded your graduation from the high school, started you to college, and when you returned mentioned the first job you secured. Told of your marriage to the sweetest girl in town and also mentioned the advent of your first born. Told of the visits of pa and ma, sympathized with you in your sorrow, laughed with you in your joy, and when you die it will do its best to get you thru the pearly gates, all for only $1.50 per year.—Cheney Sentinel.
